METRO.US

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT, REPORTER

Do you have health care? There are 600,000 New Yorkers who don't, and Mayor Bill de Blasio wants them covered. The mayor announced a health-care-for-all-New-Yorkers initiative on Tuesday to help bridge the gap in coverage and keep people from using the emergency room as the default option when people lack primary or preventive care. Even undocumented New Yorkers will be covered under this program, called NYC Care, and information on their status won't be shared with the federal government, the mayor assured. For those who can't afford any insurance, this will be free, officials said. Read more about the city's step toward universal health care within the five boroughs inside and at metro.us.

2ND MAN CHARGED IN
7-YEAR-OLD GIRL'S MURDER

A second black man was charged with murder on Tuesday in the shooting death of an African-American girl in the Houston area, after initial witness descriptions of a white suspect sparked fears of a hate crime. Larry Woodruffe, 24, was charged with capital murder on Tuesday in Harris County District Court, after Eric Black Jr., 20, was charged with the same crime over the weekend. Authorities said Woodruffe, who was riding in a vehicle driven by Black, opened fire on Dec. 30 and killed 7-year-old Jazmine Barnes, who was in another car with her family. Prosecutors have said they may seek the death penalty in the case. Attorneys for Woodruffe and Black could not be reached for comment. Family members and friends held a funeral service for the girl in Houston on Tuesday, with her body carried in a white casket with flowers and the message "Princess Jazmine" sewn into the lid, according to the Houston Chronicle. A police sketch of a light-skinned suspect initially led Barnes' family and some community leaders to describe the shooting as a white-on-black hate crime, but investigators shifted their focus as new leads were developed.

BILLIONAIRE STEYER TO ANNOUNCE ON 2020 RACE

Billionaire environmentalist Tom Steyer, a Democratic donor and activist who has spent millions pushing to impeach Republican President Donald Trump, is expected to announce on Wednesday whether he will make a 2020 White House bid. Steyer will discuss his "political plans for 2019 and beyond" at a news conference in Iowa, where he is hosting an event on access to education, according to a statement released on Tuesday. Iowa is the traditional starting point for the Democratic nominating contests that will kick off early next year. His spokespeople did not respond to requests for more details about the announcement. Steyer has said he was considering running for president. Steyer, 61, has grown increasingly active in politics over the past decade but has never run for office. Early opinion polls show him trailing other Democrats in name recognition and support. He may face another self-funded billionaire candidate in Michael Bloomberg, the former mayor of New York, who has more of a national profile.

TRUMP MAKES HIS CASE FOR WALL

President Donald Trump urged Congress on Tuesday to give him $5.7 billion this year to help build a wall on the border with Mexico, but stopped short of declaring a national emergency that could have led to unilaterally funding the project. Facing Democratic opposition in Congress to a wall, Trump said in a prime-time televised speech that there was a growing security crisis at the U.S.-Mexico border.

DRONE REPORTS HALT
HEATHROW FLIGHTS

Flights from London's Heathrow airport were halted for about an hour on Tuesday after a drone was sighted near Europe's busiest air hub, raising fears that the chaos that affected rival Gatwick last month could be repeated on an even larger scale. "We are responding to a drone sighting at Heathrow," the airport said. "As a precautionary measure, we have stopped departures while we investigate. We apologize to passengers for any inconvenience this may cause." London's Metropolitan Police said it had received reports of a drone near the airport at about noon on Tuesday, which it was investigating with airport authorities. It said police officers were among those who reported seeing a drone and that it had launched a full criminal investigation. The airport confirmed about an hour later that take-offs had resumed. Flight tracker websites showed flights departing from 1 p.m. A Reuters witness in a plane on the runway at Heathrow said multiple aircraft were waiting for permission to take off before being later told that things were starting to move.

MARGOT ROBBIE TO PLAY BARBIE IN FILM

Actress Margot Robbie is to play Barbie in the first live-action feature movie about the iconic and controversial doll, who has enjoyed multiple careers in her 60-year lifetime. Toy maker Mattel and movie studio Warner Bros. on Tuesday announced they were partnering to make the film, which will star the Oscar-nominated actress. Robbie, 28, will also co-produce the film, the companies said in a statement. No plot, title or release date was announced for the film, which comes 60 years after the adult-figured Barbie fashion doll was launched in March 1959. Robbie, who was Oscar-nominated for her starring role in the 2017 ice-skating movie "I, Tonya" and who appeared in the 2016 superhero movie "Suicide Squad," said she hoped the film would "have a tremendously positive impact on children and audiences worldwide." "Barbie has empowered kids to imagine themselves in aspirational roles from a princess to president," the actress said in a statement. Barbie has adopted more than 200 careers in her lifetime, including robotics engineer, astronaut and teacher.

Manafort allegedly lied about giving polling data to Russian: Court

Paul Manafort. GETTY IMAGES

A meeting about a “Ukrainian peace plan” allegedly occurred in Madrid.

President Donald Trump’s former campaign chairman, Paul Manafort, was accused by federal prosecutors of lying about sharing polling data related to Trump’s 2016 presidential campaign with a business partner with alleged ties to Russian intelligence, according to portions of a court filing by Manafort’s defense team that were inadvertently made public on Tuesday.

Before sending the document to a public database for federal court filings, lawyers for Manafort had tried to black out the portion on polling data and other information about Manafort’s interactions with Konstantin Kilimnik, a former business partner of Manafort’s who Mueller has claimed in court filings has ties to Russian intelligence.

But some journalists, including at Vox and the Guardian, realized the redacted portions could be electronically reversed and posted uncensored versions on Twitter. Reuters did not independently review the filing, which was soon replaced in the public database with a properly redacted version.

Manafort’s lawyers did not respond to a request for comment on the matter. A spokesman for Special Counsel Robert Mueller, whose office is prosecuting Manafort, declined to comment. Kilimnik could not be reached for comment.

According to the unredacted versions posted online, the blacked-out sections showed that Manafort has been accused by Mueller of lying about his sharing of polling data on the 2016 campaign with Kilimnik.

The sections posted online also stated that Mueller’s office believes that Manafort lied to prosecutors about his discussions with Kilimnik about a “Ukrainian peace plan” and a meeting that Manafort had with Kilimnik when they both were in Madrid.

The filing did not provide further details on the Madrid meeting or the peace plan, although Mueller has scrutinized a proposal by a Ukrainian lawmaker that involved, among other outcomes, the lifting of U.S. sanctions on Russia.

In the document Manafort’s lawyers referenced a December court filing in which Mueller alleged that Manafort had “conceded” to discussing the peace plan, which they argued was an indication that their client was forthcoming when his memory was refreshed of past events.

The inadvertent disclosures offered a rare glimpse into details that were meant to remain private while Manafort’s lawyers and Mueller’s office battle over whether Manafort has breached a plea agreement struck in September by lying.

In December Mueller accused Manafort in a court filing of telling “multiple discernible lies” related to five subjects, including his interactions with Kilimnik and his contacts with Trump administration officials in 2018.

At the time, Manafort’s lawyers said their client never intentionally provided incorrect information to prosecutors, but asked the judge for time to consider whether they wanted to contest Mueller’s allegations or proceed to sentencing.

U.S. District Judge Amy Berman Jackson had given Manafort’s lawyers until Monday to make a decision. REUTERS

De Blasio unveils plan to guarantee health care for all New Yorkers

Under NYC Care, New Yorkers who couldn't previously afford or qualify for coverage will get comprehensive health care.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

Sitting in front of a banner that read, "Health care is a right," Mayor Bill de Blasio announced a plan on Tuesday to provide health care to all New Yorkers through a new program called NYC Care.

Through this initiative, the mayor said, every New York City resident will have a card listing their primary care doctor by name, with direct access to NYC Health + Hospitals' physicians, pharmacies and mental health and substance abuse services.

"For too many New Yorkers, they live in fear. They live in fear of getting sick, they don't know where to turn, they don't know how they're going to afford health care," de Blasio said, speaking from Lincoln Hospital in the Bronx. "About 600,000 New Yorkers do not have any health care coverage at all. That's as many people as live in the entire city of Milwaukee or Baltimore."

For those New Yorkers, an emergency room visit has become the "default" for receiving care, officials said.

NYC Care will help avert emergency room visits and hospitalizations, helping avoid more expensive public costs, officials said, by offering less expensive primary and preventive care to those who previously did not have it.

"It's very significant

that you chose to do this at Lincoln Hospital, which is among the 10 busiest emergency rooms in the United States," Dr. Mitchell Katz, president and CEO of NYC Health + Hospitals, said to the mayor. "People will now be able to have their own doctor, be able to be seen in primary care, and only come to the emergency room when that level of care is needed."

The current wait time for a primary care appointment in New York City is within a week, said Katz. As more residents join NYC Care, he said, officials will maintain that, making primary care appointments accessible within one to two weeks.

NYC Care: Who now gets health care in New York City? The Affordable Care Act helped 8 million New Yorkers get health insurance, but the remaining residents without health care either can't afford it, have been unable to navigate the exchange or are undocumented.

Now, all those New Yorkers will be covered under NYC Care for both physical and mental health care.

"For those who can afford it, they will pay on a sliding scale. For those who can't afford anything, care will be free," de Blasio said. "Those are New York City values: No one gets turned away."

This effort will begin immediately, with officials increasing enrollment efforts through MetroPlus,

New York City's public health insurance option. It will take about two years for NYC Care to get to "full strength," de Blasio said, with more customer service efforts built out over that time period. The program will cost at least $100 million at full scale.

$100M

The program will cost at least $100 million at full scale.

Residents can call MetroPlus or 311 to get connected to health care in New York City. A direct number for NYC Care will come at a later date.

This is a health care change that should "ideally" come out of Washington or Albany, de Blasio said, but New Yorkers need guaranteed health care coverage now.

Unblock critics, court tells pols

To ensure First Amendment rights, elected officials, including New York politicians, cannot block negative constituents on social media.

WILL DRICKEY
will.drickey@metro.us

Politicians can no longer block critics on social media as it now constitutes a violation of the First Amendment, a federal appeals court ruled on Monday in a case known as Brian Davison v. Phyllis Randall. If you've been blocked on Twitter or other platforms by an elected official because of criticism, you may have grounds to complain.

"Today's decision confirms that the First Amendment prohibits government censorship on new communications platforms," said Katie Fallow, one of the attorneys who argued the case. "Public officials, who increasingly use social media accounts as public forums to foster speech and debate among their constituents, have no greater license to suppress dissent online than they do offline."

The ruling may prove problematic for several New York officials who have blocked voters and journalists after facing public scrutiny, including State Sen. Kevin Parker and City Council member Jimmy Van Bramer.

Parker, who responded to a GOP aide's accusation of obstructing a bike lane in December with the tweet "Kill yourself!", went on to block critics on Twitter. While he later apologized for his comments, the blocks were not lifted, causing some to complain that they were unable to see Parker's apology.

Likewise, Council member Van Bramer came under fire in November for blocking the organization Queens Anti-Gentrification Project from commenting on his Instagram account, supposedly for making a post accusing him of hypocrisy regarding Amazon's upcoming HQ2 in Long Island City. Van Bramer accused the group of threatening him physically and claimed that he had gotten the go-ahead from City Council lawyers that the act was legal.

As of press time, neither Parker's nor Van Bramer's offices had responded to our requests for comment.

Aside from these notable cases, a number of New York politicians and organizations, including the Taxi and Limousine Commission and Port Authority, and several State Assembly members, have blocked people on Twitter, the nonprofit newsroom ProPublica found. Their information is incomplete, however, as several bodies, including the State Assembly, refused to provide lists, claiming that the Freedom of Information Act does not apply. Given the ruling declares that elected officials' social media accounts are constitutionally protected "public forums," this may change in the future.

With this ruling, individuals and groups who complain of being silenced by politicians may have precedent to bring their own cases forward, if they so choose. While this case is not the first to rule that blocking critics on Twitter is unconstitutional — President Trump is currently appealing a case from May 2018 that ruled against him — it is the first to reach a federal appeals court. If Phyllis Randall and the Loudon County Board of Supervisors elect to appeal again, the U.S. Supreme Court may have to decide just how constitutional our right to post is.

Politicians only can't block critics
Not everyone who has been blocked by politicians has grounds to sue, however. The judges found in favor of the plaintiff because he had been blocked for expressing dissenting opinions to the chairwoman of a Virginia county's board of supervisors.

"The First Amendment forecloses officials from suppressing speech on the basis of viewpoint," said Jameel Jaffer, executive director for the Knight Institute, the legal team representing the plaintiff. "With so many public officials using social media as a means of communicating with their constituents, the Fourth Circuit's thoughtful ruling will undoubtedly have broad impact."

Is Finding The Best Treatment For Your Knee Arthritis Pain Worth 30 Seconds To You?

What if... there was a way to finally get straight answers about the most cutting-edge medical treatments for knee arthritis available today...

Answers from REAL MEDICAL DOCTORS who are experts in this field...

De Blasio angry at Trump's notion of terrorism threat at southern border

In calling for a border wall, President Trump has said it's necessary to stop terrorism. New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio says that's laughable.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

The Trump administration has argued that the border wall is needed to stop terrorists from entering the country, but that notion rubs New York Mayor Bill de Blasio the wrong way.

Ahead of President Donald Trump's address from the Oval Office Tuesday night, de Blasio was asked if he planned to tune in. Yes, he answered — but to the question of whether he expected to be persuaded in support of the border wall, he said, simply, "no."

"That $5 billion — now I'm hearing $7 billion — for the wall, I could tell you a lot of things we could in this city to help people, to rebuild our infrastructure, to get people health care, to improve our schools," he said at an unrelated Tuesday press conference. "That's where our money should go."

"The other thing that's really pissing me off ... you know, we are the No. 1 terror target in the country," he added. "I have spent five years talking to [Former NYPD] Commissioner Bratton, [Current NYPD] Commissioner O'Neill, the FBI, the Joint Terrorism Task Force about the threats we face. I cannot remember a single

"This notion that terrorism is emanating from the southern border is laughable," de Blasio said Tuesday. REUTERS IMAGE conversation where they said there's a threat to New York City coming from the southern border."

White House press secretary Sarah Sanders said on Friday that Customs and Border Protection agents caught about 4,000 known or suspected terrorists "that came across our southern border" last year.

In actuality, the Department of Homeland Security prevented nearly 4,000 known or suspected terrorists from "traveling to the United States" by any means in 2017, NBC reported. Customs and Border patrol stopped only six "non-U.S. persons" on the Terrorist Screening Database at the southern border in the first half of 2018.

"We have some real challenges here that are not coming from the southern border. They are coming from other places. The airports are the places we need to be worried about, not the border wall."

Mayor Bill de Blasio

Administration officials eventually confirmed Sanders had made a mistake. Still, Trump planned to pitch the border wall as necessary because of a terror threat during his Tuesday night address.

"This notion that terrorism is emanating from the southern border is laughable," de Blasio said. "We have some real challenges here that are not coming from the southern border. They are coming from other places. The airports are the places we need to be worried about, not the border wall."

"But also, if the president was serious about security, he would want to make sure that people on the terror watch list couldn't get guns," de Blasio added, "but he hasn't been too willing to take on the NRA, so this is getting kind of stupid at this point."

Shingles vaccine shortage a concern in midst of gov't shutdown: Schumer

As the government shutdown continues, Long Island is seeing a shingles vaccine shortage, prompting Sen. Chuck Schumer to call on the FDA to take urgent action.

As a federal agency, the FDA has been shuttered in light of the government shutdown with the exception of essential staff. Those essential workers should step up, Schumer says, and help alleviate this shortage, which could potentially lead to New Yorkers getting either shingles or the chicken pox virus.

"To think that in the midst of a shingle shot vaccine shortage across Long Island, that the FDA is shut down, is a worrisome thought and a problem that must be addressed," Schumer said in a statement.

"The shingle shot shortage across the island is a two-pronged worry," he added, "because not only does a shortage mean more people might suffer the painful and harmful shingles virus itself, but it means that young people, particularly babies and children, even those with compromised immune systems who have never had chicken pox themselves, are at a greater risk to communicate the bug."

You cannot spread shingles, but Dr. Michelle Lin of Mount Sinai Hospital told Metro that if someone has an active shingles outbreak, it could cause a chicken pox infection in someone who hasn't previously had chicken pox or hasn't yet been vaccinated.

"[Shingles] is an infection caused by the same virus that causes chicken pox, so once you've had chicken pox, the virus lives dormant in your nervous system essentially for your entire life," she said.

"If there's a period where your immune system isn't as strong as it usually is, whether it's from stress or insufficient sleep, sometimes if people are older or have a disease like HIV that causes their immune system to not be as strong, the virus can reactivate," she said, "and cause the disease that we call shingles, which is essentially a very painful rash." It's not life-threatening, but there can be complications.

Schumer is urging the FDA to consider the shortage an emergency and prioritize shipments of the vaccine to New York and other high-population states — because of the higher risk for spreading the chicken pox virus — before it becomes a "full-on crisis." KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

FBI testifies it collected up to 200 'El Chapo' calls

The trial is expected to last several more weeks.

The voice of Joaquin Guzman, the accused Mexican drug lord known as "El Chapo," wafted through a Brooklyn courtroom on Tuesday after an FBI special agent said the agency had intercepted 100 to 200 recorded calls of him after infiltrating his encrypted messaging system.

Testimony from the agent, Steven Marston, came nearly two months into the trial of Guzman, which began last Nov. 13 and may last a few more weeks.

Guzman, 61, was extradited to the United States in January 2017 to face charges of traffick-

Prosecutors have also said Guzman played a central role in a Mexican drug war in which more than 100,000 people have died. Guzman faces life in prison if convicted.

Marston said the FBI tapped into more than 800 calls on the encrypted system with the help of a cooperating witness, Christian Rodriguez, with its probe targeting Guzman, Colombian drug trafficking leader Diego Cifuentes and others.

The agent said the system's servers were moved to the Netherlands, where they "would not be suspicious" to Sinaloa, and that calls were intercepted from April 2011 to January 2012.

Tuesday began with testimony from Galvan, a low-level trafficker whom the defense accused of fabricating $3 million in monthly payments ... to Guzman, with the hope of reducing his own 24½-year prison term.

Marston said Guzman was readily identifiable by his higher-pitched voice, which had "kind of a singsongy nature to it" and a "nasally undertone."

A few calls were played to jurors by early afternoon. Jurors had previously heard from former Guzman associates testifying about multi-ton drug shipments, deadly wars between rival drug lords, and corruption by Mexican public officials.

Guzman's lawyers have portrayed their client as a scapegoat for what they called Sinaloa's real leader, Ismael "El Mayo" Zambada, who also faces U.S. charges but remains at large.

The defendant mostly sat quietly during testimony, but waved enthusiastically to his wife in the courtroom before it started.

Tuesday's proceedings began with additional testimony from government witness Edgar Galvan, a low-level drug trafficker whom the defense accused of fabricating $3 million in monthly payments from another trafficker to Guzman, with the hope of reducing his own 24½-year prison term.

Galvan denied making up the payments, although he admitted to having previously lied to investigators.

"Would you say you're a pretty good liar?" defense lawyer William Purpura asked Galvan.

"I used to be," Galvan said. REUTERS

YOU CALL THAT A GRUMBLE?
Wow, it must have been a slow day at the Grumble desk yesterday. The only complaint you could come up with was the basting threads on the back of suit jackets? Marian, this is what really gets your goat, basting threads? I guarantee you, if the manufacturers use brightly colored thread, people will think it is a new fashion statement and even more people will be leaving the threads on.

How about some real Grumbles, like people who think a right turn on red is their god-given right, or those who pull out into traffic whenever there is a car's length to fit into, forcing those with the green light to put on the breaks to avoid hitting the idiot. (Not really an issue for those living in the city.) I believe the law is, come to a complete stop, and if there is no traffic, then proceed with caution. You're at a RED light. Sit back, open that jacket

IT'S OKAY TO GIVE YOURSELF A BREAK

Sometimes the dishes pile up. Sometimes projects seem like they will never be completed. Simply knowing that you have some important tasks waiting for you at home can send you to the floor in a puddle of stress and anguish. When did this happen? When did your life become a series of checklists with boxes that get cleared once they've been colored in? Sometimes, your mind needs a day to reset and relax from all the tedium of your day-to-day life. Go to the movies or hit up happy hour with friends. It's okay to give yourself a break from time to time. Those projects can wait another day. We all know, they will be waiting for you.

Aries Think about how best to use your time and skills to benefit yourself and others. Keep your plans secret until you have eliminated any flaws.

Taurus Soak up knowledge, information and experience. You will gain insight and confidence through the connections you make and the information you gather.

Gemini Look for opportunities, but don't believe everything someone tells you. If a project or product interests you, do some serious research and see where it takes you.

Cancer If you feel the urge to do something, look into it. Take a unique step in a new direction and invite someone you know and trust to join you.

Leo Get moving. You'll have the energy and wherewithal to make changes you've long been contemplating. Stop spinning your wheels and take the plunge. Romance is highlighted.

Virgo Group endeavors will be good for you. The information you pick up and the people you meet will open your eyes to what's available. A networking event is favored.

Libra Tread carefully when dealing with home, family and domestic concerns. You can't put a price on love, but loyalty and honesty will go part and parcel with keeping the peace.

Scorpio Attending a reunion or getting together with someone you haven't seen in a long time will spark memories and lead to plans. A unique change at home will give you a boost.

Sagittarius Change begins within. Do your best to offer love and compassion to friends and family, but don't let anyone take advantage of you. Romance is in the stars.

Capricorn Keep an open mind when dealing with others, but don't let anyone take you for granted. Offer suggestions, your services or your time, but not cash. Focus on helping yourself.

Aquarius It's OK to change your mind. As long as you are honest about your thoughts and plans, you should feel no guilt for following your own path.

Pisces Cover your bases when helping others. Don't be gullible. Pay attention to the root of a problem and focus on how best to make a difference.

Aya Cash and Chris Geere say goodbye to 'You're the Worst'

The stars open up about saying goodbye to the popular comedy series.

ANDREW HUSBAND
drew.husband@metro.us

This week, the fifth and final season of FX's critically acclaimed comedy series "You're the Worst" will premiere.

For the sake of avoiding any and all spoilers, let's just say that creator Stephen Falk has found a uniquely odd (but appropriate) way to kick off the beginning of the end. Or, at least that's what stars Aya Cash and Chris Geere told Metro while promoting "You're the Worst" season 5.

"I never used to enjoy doing standalone episodes because I didn't know how they were going to turn out," admits Geere, who plays Jimmy Shive-Overly. "But there was so much trust invested in Stephen. Anything he throws at us is going to work. It all comes from a great place. So when we were filming this episode, in particular, Aya and I used to look at each other and go, 'Is this our show? What are we doing?'"

Despite the season 5 premiere's eclectic approach to picking up where season 4 left off, the pair is excited for audiences to see what happens during the next few months. Unsurprisingly, they're also a bit sad about the whole affair, for once the 13th episode comes to a conclusion, that will be it for the show.

"Yeah, I'm sad, but I'm also excited for everybody to see it," says Cash, who plays Gretchen Cutler. "You never know how people are going to react, but when I read [the episode scripts], I was like, 'Oh, this feels right.' So I'm excited to share them with everybody but totally devastated that it's over now."

As somber as the occasion is, both Cash and Geere agree that, when working in a long-form entertainment format like television, knowing just how much story there is left to tell is a good place to be. After all, the "You're the Worst" team knew going into season 5 that it would be the show's last. In that way, they would all get to tell the story they wanted to tell, and how they wanted to tell it.

"It's so much better," says Cash. "It's so much more civilized to be able to end a series on your own terms and close out the story. If we had just ended after any random season, I think we'd all be wondering what happened. But now, we get to really say goodbye and pay our respects to the series."

"It's rare to know so far in advance that you're going to get another season, let alone actually know that it's ending," adds Geere. "To get five seasons is a huge accomplishment in our current climate. We're upset we didn't get that movie because that would have been so much fun, but "You're the Worst" has been, and will always be, a sleeper show. The fans seem to keep building over time. The numbers seem to keep growing as we go on. As a TV viewer, if I know that I can watch the entirety of something on a streaming service, that's great. I like that. People like to have a beginning, middle and end and we most definitely have that."

Of course, this doesn't mean that Cash and Geere won't be doing anything else anytime soon. The British actor briefly commented on his role in the Ryan Reynolds-starring "Detective Pikachu" movie: "I just spent four months on that, which was all green screen," he joked.

Cash, meanwhile, will next be seen in FX's upcoming miniseries "Fosse/Verdon," in which she plays Joan Simon, the wife of playwright Neil Simon. "That was super fun and I have a great wig," she says of the experience. "That's my spoiler alert."

"You're the Worst" season 5 premieres tonight at 10 p.m. on FX.

"The Book of Mormon" is taking part in Broadway Week for the first time. JOAN MARCUS

This year, all of the city's slow-season discounts collide for two weeks of 2-for-1 tickets and discounted menus.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

Who has any money left after the holiday season? Nobody, and on top of that, it's cold — but at least we're getting some help with the former problem for two weeks when dozens of the city's most popular attractions and Broadway shows offer 2-for-1 tickets during NYC Winter Outing.

From Jan. 21 through Feb. 10, three of the city's big discount programs through NYC & Company during the winter slow season will happen simultaneously for the first time. That means Broadway Week, Must-See Week and NYC Restaurant Week, when you can get prix-fixe lunch and dinner deals at hundreds of restaurants, all converge for two weeks of cultural and culinary gluttony. Reservations and sales start today — and you'll need to be fast because some of these deals will go fast.

Among the 59 attractions, tours, boat outings and performances you can score 2-for-1 tickets to during Must-See Week are the Houdini Museum (for all you magic fans driving a revival of the genre across the city); The Rink at Rockefeller Center (for the movie buffs); National Geographic's aquarium of the future, "Ocean Odyssey" (it'll make you appreciate real oceans); and the Radio City Stage Door Tour, which my grandparents still talk about three de-cadecades after taking it.

Broadway Week includes 24 musicals and plays, 11 of which are new to the promotion. Among them are the oversized hit "King Kong," Tina Fey's blockbuster musical adaptation of "Mean Girls" and the long-running "Book of Mormon."

Nearly 400 eateries have signed on to participate in NYC Restaurant Week, with prix-fixe menus of $26 for a two-course lunch and $42 for a three-course dinner.

Find all the details and tickets at nycgo.com.

The arches of "Iceberg" change color and play various sounds as you walk through them. MARTINE DOYON

Play this musical 'Iceberg'

A tunnel of color-changing arches that light up and play music as you walk through them are taking over a pedestrian plaza in the Garment District this winter.

Debating today along Broadway from West 37th to 38th streets, Iceberg is part-interactive public art, part-lesson about how humans are changing our fragile Earth.

To the casual observer, "Iceberg" will seem like an illuminated runway. The arches glow an ambient blue on their own, the metallic arches that make up "Iceberg" flash fuchsia lights in response to "warming up" as visitors pass beneath them — a musical light show you create simply by walking or running through it. And there's certainly no more fitting place for an illuminated runway than the Garment District, which used to be the heart of the fashion industry in New York.

But like the giant glowing rabbits that took over Brookfield Place in 2016, the real purpose of the installation is a melancholy one. "Iceberg" has to do with global warming, representing the life cycle of a glacier from when it breaks off into the Arctic Ocean to its slow melting while drifting south into warmer waters. The arches are divided into three tunnels representing different stages of the iceberg's life, from the slow cracking sounds as the iceberg begins to break away to dripping water as it slowly melts before a symphony of chimes marks its arrival in the warmer waters of the coast inhabited by humans.

The sounds and lights of each ice tunnel change depending on how quickly you walk through the tunnels — just like human activity has spurred climate change.

"Iceberg" is a production of the non-profit Garment District Alliance, created by Atomic3 and Appareil Architecture with Jean-Sébastien Côté and Philippe Jean. It debuted in Montreal as part of the 2012 Luminothérapie festival, a winter-time exhibit of interactive light sculptures. If you're looking for even more light-up fun, the 2019 Luminothérapie festival is going on now through Jan. 27.

Jon Glaser talks his all-consuming love for all things 'Gear'

Season 2 of
"Jon Glaser Loves Gear" premieres
tonight on truTV.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

Comedian Jon Glaser has a knack for creating characters with all-consuming and life-derailing obsessions. Whether it is the preservation of a fragile ego with his character “Jon” from the witness-protection drama and reality TV show hybrid “Delocated” or his recent turn as Neon Joe in “Neon Joe Werewolf Hunter,” Glaser understands the powerful hold of fixations, no matter how dumb they can be.

That's all part of the fun, of course, and with his latest show "Jon Glaser Loves Gear" on truTV, Glaser has come the closest that he ever has to actually portraying a semi-realistic version of himself in front of the camera. While most of the characters he has created in the past have been based on ridiculous concepts, this version of "Jon Glaser" is derived from a genuine love of all things gear.

I met up with Glaser in between takes during the filming of the hilarious second season — premiering tonight — to get to the bottom of his fascination with cool swag.

"To me, I didn't even approach it from a comedy standpoint at all," Glaser explains. "The original idea for the show was way more reality-based. I didn't even consider pitching it to comedy networks at all. I thought it would be much more gear-based. It comes from a genuine place of really liking gear and stuff."

While the show had a more wholesome beginning, of course, it began to veer into Glaser's usual absurd world. The first season of the series followed Jon as he tested out new gear for different activities such as camping, building a man cave, surfing and cycling with both his automated gear specialist Gear-i, voiced by John Hodgman, and his co-expert Steve Cirbus ("Spurt" for short). As we get deeper, Glaser's enthusiasm for the gear on his show begins to affect his family life.

The new season follows this obsession even further as "Jon" begins to lose sight of where the show ends and where it begins. Glaser credits the inspiration behind this version of himself on a routine that he used to perform onstage.

"I did this bit onstage years ago, where I wore a jacket," he remembers. "The first time I did it was with this really nice raincoat that I bought from this company called Westcomb, which is an offshoot of Arc'teryx. They make really high-end, more technical raincoats for backpacking or ice climbing.

"It's a really nice, beautifully made jacket," he adds. "So I thought, 'I'm just gonna go on-stage and I'm going to talk about this jacket' ... I said to the audience, 'I was trying to think of a bit for tonight and was having a tough time thinking about something new. I had writer's block so I went back to that tried and true device of write about what you love. Something I love is this raincoat.'"

Is this love of gear simply a midlife crisis?

"I never thought of it as a midlife crisis thing," Glaser says with a laugh. "But it is a funny way to look at it! It's one of those things where if I step back, I'm sure I'd be like, 'Oh my god.'"

Important Knee Arthritis Pain Alert

Study Shows Simple Treatment Helps Avoid Knee Replacement Surgery For 75% Of Worst Cases At Least 7.3 Years...

*Free Screenings Offered At NYC Medical Clinic To See If You Qualify For This Proven And Effective Treatment. Spots Are Limited Due To High Demand

NYC - What would it be worth to you if... in just 60 minutes... you could finally discover a way to get relief for your knee arthritis pain?

And...

How would it feel if you could wake up tomorrow morning and some... or even all your pain was gone?

And...

Wouldn't it be wonderful to start a brand new life and leave all your pain and suffering behind?

A life where...

...you jump out of bed in the morning, well rested and ready to take on the new day, without pain...

...you don't have to take slow, limping laps around your bedroom just to be able to walk every morning...

...you can go for walks, go up and down stairs and maybe even play sports like tennis and golf again...

...you can finally do all the things and enjoy life (just like everyone else) without constant, nagging pain...

Well... that's exactly what can possibly happen to you if you spend just 60 minutes with us...

...Because that's all it will take for one of our expert doctors to show you what we believe to be the safest, and most effective knee arthritis pain treatment there is...

I know you may find this hard to believe. Just about every one does when we tell them about this... at first.

But it doesn't take long for them to turn from skeptic to raving fan as soon as their pain improves so fast.

Do You Have An Open Mind?

So, I'm not asking you to believe me just yet. All I ask is you approach this and read the rest of this information with an open mind. If you give us a chance, we promise, you won't be disappointed...

Because There is Proof Real medical proof.

Here it is. A leading Orthopedic Surgeon and knee pain expert was getting excellent results with this non-surgical treatment on his own patients. In fact, this study involved almost 2000 patients followed over 10 years.

And more specifically, he was getting amazing results the way HE was doing this treatment using high tech imaging for precise technique... just like we do it...

And he wanted to prove... beyond a shadow of a doubt... the results he got... were not only REAL... they could most likely work for others just like you.

So he conducted some research, an 11 year project, and is was published in the "Journal of Knee Surgery"... a Real and REPUTABLE medical journal (A copy of this research is available on our website or by mail)

What were his results and what do they mean for your pain?

In this study he found that 75% of the severe knee arthritis pain patients he treated... and were facing knee replacement surgery... did not need to have knee replacement surgery... and were still OK 7.3 years later!

This is incredible news for you... and here's is why...

The patients in this study were Stage 4 knee arthritis. That's the most advanced and worst stage. These are the cases that are usually sent for knee replacement surgery.

These patients had also gone through the common medical treatments like pain and anti-inflammatory pills, physical therapy etc. and all that had failed.

So... these were the WORST cases of which every thing else had failed ... YET, after this treatment, 75% still did not need knee replacement even more than 7 years later.

And it gets better. The study only collected data up to that time. It is pretty safe to say that many may never need surgery.

Bottom line: This study clearly showed this treatment is safe and extremely effective even for even the worst cases.

So, even if you aren't one of the worst cases... imagine what it can do for you.

What IS This Treatment And How Can You Find Out If It Can Help You?

As studied as this treatment is.... you may have an "Oh No!" reaction.

Why? Because there is a very good chance you have heard of it. You may have even given it a try... and NOT gotten good results.

That's because this treatment is actually pretty common now a days. But... and this is a very big BUT... there is a very specific way to apply this treatment (as done in the study) that makes it so successful. And many are NOT doing it this way.

So... please hear us out. This really might be the answer you are looking for. Ok... here is the treatment and the full scoop on why it works so well... when done THIS WAY.

The treatment is called "viscosupplementation." It is frequently called, "gel treatment." Or "joint oil".

In this treatment, a gel is painlessly injected directly into your arthritic joint. This lubricates the joint, reduces friction... and allows more movement without all the inflammation and "grinding" caused by arthritis.

This is like putting oil on a rusty hinge. Once the oil is applied, the hinge can move much better.

But here is something you must know:

In that research project, all of the procedures were done with highly advanced imaging to guide the injections and make sure the gel got into the joint space area ultra-precisely.

This is EXTREMELY important... because... research also shows that injections done WITHOUT this imaging to guide them... can miss the joint space about one third of the time.

That means, in one third of the injections, the gel wasn't in the joint space and couldn't possibly work!!!

We feel this is why so many people have tried this treatment and DIDN'T get good results like in the patients in this research.

So, if you have already had this treatment and it didn't work... was it done with this advanced medical imaging?

If not... there is still hope.

In fact, there is a very good chance you can still get relief.

Here is why: NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic located at 65 Broadway Suite 1004 New York, NY 10006.

We have physicians who focus in this treatment... and we use the advanced imaging to make sure the treatments are extremely precise and get the best results possible.

In fact, we have a doctor trained at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Cornell University and even Harvard Medical School.

We have the best... but we also make treatments VERY affordable

Just because we offer the best possible treatments and doctors... doesn't mean we Study shows this treatment was successful in 75% of knee arthritis pain sufferers... saving them from surgery for at least 7.3 years. Will it work for you? Find out for FREE are so expensive only rich people can get our wonderful treatments.

While treatments may be covered by Medicare and some insurances... we also offer pricing plans for as little as $13.57 per week so patients can finally relieve their pain and try to avoid surgery.

We don't want lack of insurance or money to be the reason you continue suffering.

Your Special Invitation...

If you have knee arthritis pain... and are even just a little interested in finding out what this treatment can do for you... we are inviting you to come in for a FREE screening appointment.

During this screening, you will get to talk to the doctor... ask questions... and find out if you qualify.

We will go over everything with you... and you will breathe a big sigh of relieve finally having real answers and a specific plan to possibly relieve your pain.

We will leave no stone unturned... and we will help you any way we can.

Please understand this:

This treatment can possibly take away your pain...

No matter how long you've been suffering. It really doesn't matter. It may take a little more time if you've been suffering for years as opposed to a "new" case... but in the end... you can still get tremendous results...

No matter how bad or helpless you THINK your case is. Many of our patients thought their case was hopeless, too far gone, for anything to help them. Many of their previous doctors told them that. Well you're NOT. With this treatment... the way our expert doctors do it... there is always hope.

Most of our patients have told us we were their last resort. Last stop before packing it in and completely giving up and submitting to surgery. They soon found out that our treatments made it really easy to get relief... and, best of all...

You Get To See If You Qualify For FREE

That's right. We want you to see EVERYTHING first hand and to prove to you... without a shadow of a doubt... we have the help for your knee pain that you are desperately wanting. And we want to do it without you spending a penny or risking anything to find out.

That's why we are offering you this free screening.

So my big question for you is – is the opportunity to wake up tomorrow morning... and every other morning for the rest of your life... with less pain... worth the 60 minutes it will take to be evaluated?

What else could you possibly do with that same 60 minutes that could have such a profound impact on the rest of you and your family's lives?

You know, it's really disappointing to me that so many people just go on living with pain when you don't have to. So many of patients tell us how they used to be in pain... just about every day.

They were in so much pain... they were grumpy and miserable all the time. They hated work. They're relationships were strained. Life was just one big struggle. Now that they've discovered what we will reveal to you at your free screening... all that's changed... Work and family have become rewarding and fun. Life is so much easier and better... in so many ways... without the pain. Finally, things start falling into place the way you always thought they would.

One of the best things or physicians and staff hear is "Hey doc since starting this program I've lost 17 pounds because now that I can finally move around pain-free the weight just keeps coming off!"

Which one of those amazing things I just mentioned would you like to happen to you... right now.

Maybe it's none of the things I've mentioned. But, you do have hopes and dreams. We all do. And pain robs you of the opportunity to live out those hopes and dreams. Robs you of the life you really and desperately want... and deserve.

Whatever YOUR personal hopes and dreams are... They are all possible if you take action... right now.

All you have to do is give this a chance and schedule for the screening. But then again...

What's also possible is that your pain starts getting worse. And that happens to so many people from just doing nothing.

Taking action may seem like a little work... or... it may even be a little scary for you – but not taking actions is almost always worse. The eight most dangerous words to your future, your health, and your hopes and dreams just may be...

It Will Just Get Better All By Itself!

Fact is... it may only get worse.

Here Is How To Get Your Free Screening...

Just call us at 1-877-380-8537 and tell the scheduling coordinator you want your free screening. If you are one of the first 50, it is 100% free. No obligation or strings attached.

There is NOTHING to pay for and you will NOT be stressed in any way. We don't ever do that. You see, is not uncommon for us to get over 100 new patient calls in a single day. Most are from word of mouth. But we wanted to open up this opportunity to as many arthritis pain sufferers as possible.

But because we get so many calls... we can only take 50 from what you are reading this month.

You have absolutely zero to lose and possibly everything to gain. But due to high call volume, we suggest you call now. 1-877-380-8537.

Is Matt Rhule the Jets' top priority for head coach?

The Jets might already have their head-coaching search wrapped up, even with more interviews scheduled.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Reports are indicating that the New York Jets have already found their next head coach, and it could just be a matter of time before it becomes official.

Both CBS Sports' Jason La Canfora and the New York Daily News' Manish Mehta reported that Baylor University head coach Matt Rhule is the favorite to land the Jets' head-coaching gig.

The 43-year-old New York City native has spent the past two seasons at the Texas school attempting to rebuild a program that was gutted by a sexual assault scandal under Art Briles.

After going 1-11 in 2017, Rhule quickly turned things around in Waco, leading the Bears to a 7-6 record and a win in the Texas Bowl.

It only further helped him build his reputation as a fixer, seeing as he led

Baylor head coach Matt Rhule is the early favorite for the Jets job. GETTY IMAGES

Temple University from a bottom-dweller in the American Athletic Conference to a major threat. After winning just two games in his first season in 2013, Rhule helped lead Temple to two consecutive 10-win seasons in 2015 and 2016.

Temple was Rhule's first head-coaching job at either the college or pro level, his only NFL experience coming in 2012 as an offensive line coach for the Giants.

Accepting the Jets job might be Rhule's greatest test, as he would be tasked to catapult the Jets from irrelevance and dysfunction to legitimate contenders in the AFC East.

The timing might be perfect for him as the dynastic New England Patriots look to be trending downwards. In the meantime, the Jets are expected to revamp their roster with approximately $100 million in cap space this offseason. It will allow them to make plays for big-name stars, like free-agent running back Le'Veon Bell.

Any sort of upgrade will be vital for the development of quarterback Sam Darnold, the 21-year-old recently having completed his first season in the NFL with mixed reviews.

While he was unable to single-handedly turn things around for the Jets, who limped to a 4-12 finish after two straight 5-11 campaigns, he's showed maturity and poise not many rookie passers have exhibited on bad teams.

The Jets' largest priority will be the continuation of Darnold's development, which management seems confident in entrusting Rhule with, based off the general consensus around the league.

A long checklist of needs awaits whomever the new head coach shall be, which makes the hiring of an offensive coordinator just as important for the Jets.

Former Texas Tech head coach Kliff Kingsbury, who most recently was USC's offensive coordinator, was expected to be interviewed by the Jets this week. He could have been a perfect fit for the offensive coordinator role in New York.

However, a report from Fox Sports' Peter Schrager revealed on Tuesday that Kingsbury will become the next head coach of the Arizona Cardinals.

USC initially blocked any requests from NFL teams to interview the 39-year-old before the tune changed this week.
